Both Taft And Bryan Putting In The Closing Licks To Their Respective Campaigns In Different States This Afternoon And Evening.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—President Roosevelt will start tonight for Oyster Bay, where tomorrow he will exercise his right of franchise. The reports on the exact condition of the political situation which reached the White House today from all quarters of the country indicate a republican victory.

Roosevelt maintains the highly optimistic feeling he has held throughout the campaign regarding ultimate success of the candidacy of Taft for the presidency.

He will vote early in the morning and it is probable that Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., will be on hand to cast his first vote with his father. The President's special train will reach Washington on the return trip about six o'clock tomorrow evening in time for the President to receive the returns at the White House.

NEWFOUNDLAND HAS AN ELECTION TODAY

Question of Religion Plays Important Part in Spirited Campaign Closing Saturday.

St. John's, N. F., Nov. 2.—Following a spirited campaign, the quadrennial general election in Newfoundland is being held today. Newfoundland is the only portion of British North America which enjoys an independent government apart from Canada.

The population of 250,000 is distributed in about 1800 fishing hamlets, large and small, around 600 miles of seaboard. The result of this widely scattered population is that the returns of today's election will hardly be obtainable before the end of the week.

Mr. Robert Bond, the premier, is leading the government forces in the contest, and the opposition is headed by Sir Edward Morris, who until last year was attorney general in the Bond cabinet.

The question of religion plays an important part in the political contest. Years ago, when autonomous government was first granted, the majority of the inhabitants of Newfoundland were Catholics, and the early premiers were of that faith.

However, attracted the Catholics largely to western Canada and to the United States, and the ascendancy in Newfoundland swung into Protestant hands. The present premier, Sir Robert Bond, is a Protestant, while Sir Edward Morris, the opposition leader, is a Catholic. The result of the election, therefore, hinges on the question as to whether the Protestant majority is prepared to accept a Catholic premier.

IS UNABLE YET TO RELATE HER STORY

Sixteen-year-old Manitowish Girl Too Ill to Recount Her Experiences.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Manitowish, Wis., Nov. 2.—Suffering from a nervous breakdown, ill in bed with her body bruised and swollen from the exposure to which she subjected herself, Olga Stelzer, the Milwaukee girl who was found in a neighbor's barn for a week in fear of the wrath of her parents for her love of worldly amusements, is seriously ill and when County Judge Chipmunk visited the house Saturday in an effort to question the girl, she became hysterical and the physicians refused to permit her to be questioned, fearing the results. The girl's condition is said to be critical. She is 16.

Fell Sixty Feet Falling sixty feet from the frothing works of the new docks of the Wisconsin Central, under lease of the Toledo Central Co., John Clemens, of Rapids, met instant death Saturday morning by the fall and when found the body was standing upright, on the head, in the coal piles on the docks. ## BOTH TEAMS PUT UP SCRAPPY GAME

Unsatisfactory Decisions of the Umpire Prevent Scoring by Beloit.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Beloit, Wis., Nov. 2.—Beloit was defeated by Lawrence in a fierce battle at Keokuk field Saturday afternoon by a score of 17 to 0. Both teams put up a scrappy game from start to finish but Lawrence was a little better and made all three touchdowns on straight backs from within the five-yard line.

Two unsatisfactory decisions from Umpire Stearns prevented Beloit from scoring on two brilliant runs from the forty-five-yard line, the ball going over both times but Stearns called it back on penalties which he imposed on Lawrence's line after the ball had been put into play.

The first half ended 6 to 0 and it looked from the game which Beloit had been playing, that the score would assume a different aspect before the close of the game, but Lawrence seemed to get the best of it after the middle of the last half. The playing of Beloit and Colby for the night and the speedy work of Henry of Lawrence were features of the game.

NORTHWESTERN MADE IMPORTANT CHANGE

Had Gang of Three Hundred Men Working on Tracks All Day Sunday.

All day yesterday the North-Western road had a crew of men at work at the Five Points turning out the tracks there and putting in new rails and ties. In all there were between two and three hundred men at work, a special train going down to Harrison Saturday night and coming up from there Sunday morning with two coaches of section men, the rest being picked up along the way. They arrived here about seven o'clock and immediately went to work with the regular crew which has been working in the yards. Three work trains were put on in order that the workmen might have their supplies right at hand. A special gravel train of 25 cars of gravel and 2 cars of ground rock brought material here for the ballasting crew. By six o'clock last night the work had been completed and the crossing which had been blocked all day was opened for traffic. The work had been put down, but people crossing in rigs had best watch out that they do not run into the work which has not been planned. Yesterday the two main lines were connected with the passing tracks and the Affon branch and in order to be put in with the track from the depot. Part of the ground rock which is to be used for ballasting and on the roadbed between the freight and the passenger depots has been put down and the rest will be in soon. Today a crew are replacing the rails and ties on the Affon branch. This will also be moved over and the connecting with the north and southward main tracks. The first train over the new line on the Affon branch will leave this afternoon. Tomorrow the northward main track will be completed and fully connected up. The water supply for the tower and tank at the lower end of the passenger depot will be carried through pipes run between T. F. Welch's and Sanford Soverhill's tobacco warehouses. The work of digging the ditch for the pipes has already begun.

STATE FAIRS OPENED

Louisiana and Georgia-Carolina Fairs to Have Best Exhibitions in History.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Shreveport, La., Nov. 2.—With practically every foot of available exhibit space occupied, the Louisiana state fair was opened today, under successful auspices. A splendid racing program and numerous other attractions of a high class have been provided. Visitors on the opening day occupied their time inspecting the wealth of exhibits in the big buildings and among the live stock in the pens and pavilions. Officers of the fair association expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the prospect of a record-breaking attendance throughout the week. The State Congress of Mothers and a number of other bodies will hold meetings here during the week.

Georgia-Carolina Fair Augusta, Ga., Nov. 2.—With a larger number and greater variety of attractions than ever were seen here before, the annual Georgia-Carolina fair was opened today, to continue until the end of the week. All departments of the exhibition are well filled. Especially noteworthy are the exhibits of agricultural and horticultural products, machinery and live stock, and the display of poultry, the latter being held under the auspices of the Augusta Poultry and Pet Stock association. Visitors are already arriving and all indications point to a large attendance during the remainder of the week.

WELL KNOWN BELOIT JEWELER STRICKEN

A. L. Howard Died of Heart Failure This Morning While Waiting For Street Car to Take Him to Work.

Beloit, Wis., Nov. 2.—Two men dropped dead in Beloit today. A. L. Howard, a well-known jeweler and highly respected citizen of this city, died about ten o'clock, while standing on the corner of Emerson street and College avenue for the street car to carry him to his place of business. He was sixty-four years old and had been in business here for thirty-two years, coming here from Vermont and working for the Sherman Jewelry Company, whose stand his store now occupies. The cause of his death is supposed to have been heart disease. He was a member of the Masonic order.

This afternoon about two o'clock, John Curtis, an employee of the Fairbanks-Morse company fell over in a faint while at his work and when the ambulance arrived he was dead.

Two robberies occurred in Beloit, one on Saturday night and the other supposedly the same night, although it is not known when one of them was committed. Mrs. Catherine and Anna Garry, who live in a boarding house on Broad street, found when they opened their trunk on Saturday night that $105 had been taken from it. The trunk had not been opened for a week so they do not know when the burglary occurred.

Burglars broke into the house of Ernest Thomas, a flagman on the C. & N. W. road and stole two dollars and a razor. They completely ransacked the house but failed to find $25 which was secreted in a china closet. Hawthorn was very quietly celebrated in this city, the police patrol did not have to be called out and it was quieter than it has ever been.

LIVERY STABLE WAS BURNED TO GROUND

One Man Loses His Life and a Hundred Horses Perished in Flaming.

MISSOURI WILL TRY OUT ELECTION BY THE PEOPLE

Senator To Be Elected By The People, Reversing Custom Of Eighty Years.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 2.—Reversing the custom of eighty-old years, Missouri tomorrow will nominate its United States senator by direct vote of the people, in addition to electing state and minor officers and representatives in congress. The last general assembly provided for the selection of the caucus nominee for United States senator and instructed the members of the general assembly to vote for such nominee.

The several candidates for the senatorship have stated publicly that they expect to abide by the result of the vote tomorrow. In other words they have given it out that they will not undertake to take any advantage of any insurrection in the legislature. Nevertheless many complications could arise as a result of the senatorial primary. For instance, such a situation may arise as a republican minority in the general assembly on joint ballot, while the successful candidate of the democrats may have received many thousands more votes in the primary than the successful republican candidate. Again, one of the two democratic candidates might receive a large majority of the vote cast in the primary, and a majority of the democratic members elected to the general assembly might be for his opponent. But the voluntary action of the candidates in agreeing to abide by the results of the primary is expected to obviate all difficulties in carrying out the spirit of the primary law.

On the democratic side there are two rival candidates for the senatorship. William J. Stone, the incumbent, is a candidate for reelection and is opposed by Governor Joseph W. Folk. The fight between the two is generally regarded as very close and as a consequence the result of the vote tomorrow is awaited with keen interest.

Seven names have been filed for the republican nomination. David W. Hill of Popular bluff, former speaker of the house of representatives; John Kennish of Mount City, former state senator, now assistant attorney general; Col. Richard C. Kerens, former republican national committeeman from Missouri; John C. McKinley of Unionville, present lieutenant governor; Chauncey I. Filley of St. Louis, former republican national committeeman; Jacob P. Schmitt of Morgan county, and Joseph Black of Richmond.

MONTANA'S FIGHT IS ON THE GOVERNORSHIP

Butte, Mont., Nov. 2.—Governor Norris of Montana is after a second term and at the present time indications point strongly to his election. The Montana governor became nationally known in connection with his work in the conservation of national resources which the president called last summer. This is one of the governor's hobbies and it is to his credit that he was the first governor to appoint a state conservation commission to act with the federal board.

born in Cumberland county 43 years ago last August.

His early years were spent on the farm, where he worked and attended school until 18 years of age. He afterward attended and was graduated from the Southern Normal college at Bowling Green, Ky. Subsequently he taught school, reading law in the meantime.

Deciding to cast his lot among the people of the northwest, Mr. Norris removed to Montana in December, 1888, locating in Dillon, which has been his home ever since. He continued reading law in the office of Robert B. Smith, afterward governor, and was admitted to the bar in October, 1893.

Mr. Norris served as state senator from Beaverhead county, 1896-1900. He was elected president pro tem of the senate by the sixth senate, 1899, and by virtue of this office was acting governor of the state from January 13 to March 10, 1900.

He was elected lieutenant governor in 1901, and succeeded to the office of governor on the resignation of Governor Joseph K. Toole on the first of April, 1905. He was nominated to succeed himself by the state democratic convention on September 8, 1908.

During his term of service in the senate, Senator Norris was acting chairman of the judiciary committee during the greater portion of the fifth session of the legislative assembly and took active part in the passing of the inheritance tax and insurance laws of the state. He was chairman of the judiciary committee of the sixth session.

He was city attorney for Dillon for more than six years. He served on the public school board and was president of the county high school board when it issued bonds and built the Beaverhead county high school. He assisted in the selection and the location of the State Normal college at Dillon; appeared before every legislative assembly, when not a member, in behalf of legislation and appropriations in the interest of the normal, and was for five years a member of the executive board of that institution.

Mr. Norris married Miss Nettie June Wilkins of Bowling Green, Ky., April 19, 1902.

over a new leaf, behave himself, and support his family.

Quarrel Over Wages. A young man named Jackoff, employed at Reed's cigar store on West Milwaukee street, visited Chief Appleby at the station yesterday and asked for assistance in collecting the wages due him. Because he took small sums from the cash drawer to pay personal laundry bills, etc., all the time keeping a strict account of the same and intending to make up the amount when he should be paid for his services, he alleged that the proprietor had refused to turn over to him any compensation, whatsoever. Mr. Reed also wanted the boy arrested but did not heed the Chief's request for a personal call at the latter's office. The matter has not yet been adjusted.

According to the articles of agreement the contest is to be of ten two-minute rounds. Britt has trained faithfully for the encounter and expresses confidence in his ability to win the decision and the long end of the purse.

Sprained His Ankle: Harry London, who is employed at the St. Paul roundhouse, slipped yesterday while getting off an engine and sprained his ankle.

PROFESSOR RAHR GIVES REASONS

AT BANQUET OF PRESBYTERIAN
BROTHERHOOD ON FRIDAY EVENING.

FIRST MEETING OF YEAR

Presidential Candidates—My Choice and Why Subject of Evening's Discussion.

On Friday evening the first meeting of this season of the Presbyterian Brotherhood was held in the church parlors. Following a bounteous supper served at six-thirty the topic of the evening was taken up. Presidential Candidates—My Choice and Why was the subject chosen and discussed by the various speakers. Among the speeches made, all of which were interesting, Professor Rahr of the High School faculty gave the following reasons for his choice:

I believe that the republican party with William H. Taft as its presidential candidate ought to be successful on election day for three reasons:

- (1) The republican party has a better record than any other party.
- (2) The republican party stands for better principles today than any other political party.
- (3) Wm. H. Taft is a better equipped candidate than any other candidate.

These three reasons will be taken up in the order named.

The republican party was founded on the principle that this nation was established to protect for all times the rights and opportunities of every individual from abridgement. Its origin in 1854 was both humble and noble. The great question confronting the American people in 1854 was, "Shall slavery be checked?" The republican party took the affirmative. In 1861, a more portentous question arose, "Shall our nation live or die?" Once more the republican party took the affirmative. In this dark hour of our nation's history our ship of state was safely guided through the storms of opposition and amid the rocks of hatred straight for the harbor of our broader liberties by that hero of all heroes, Abraham Lincoln.

If there is one thing more than any other that we republicans are entitled to a legitimate pride in it is the fact that Abraham Lincoln was our first president, that we believed in him and supported him while he lived and that we have never lost sight of the fact that we are his followers. There is not a principle asserted by the republican party today inconsistent with his character or out of harmony with his teachings. Abraham Lincoln stood for five cardinal principles: (1) human rights, (2) equal justice to all, which at this time can be construed to mean between capital and labor, (3) a strong national government, (4) sound money, (5) a protective tariff. These principles are the principles of but one political party today, namely the republican party.

After this war was over and peace re-established throughout the country with guarantee of the perpetuity of our government, we settled the thousand lesser evils that beset our public life. The record of the republican party during the past forty years shows conclusive evidence of its ever advancing march onward. Not once in all that time has it been abated, but by persistent adherence to the principle of duty and justice to all we have sealed the highest cliffs of opposition and thrust aside those who would lead us on to political disaster. We have kept the channels of interstate commerce open through the passing of the national bank act, the refunding of national debt, the payment of specie payment, the gold standard act and the emergency currency act, by all of these upholding the honor and integrity of the nation's finances.

As a trustee of our country's wealth, we investigated mineral regions, developed rivers and harbors, passed the homestead act, began the irrigation of the great American deserts, and began the work upon one of the world's most famous engineering exploits—the Panama canal. Utilizing capital and labor in a common prosperity through the regulation of immigration and tariff, we have created new opportunities, raised the standard of living, and have brought about a wider distribution of the comforts of living.

Had we accomplished little else during the past decade, we ought to be given great praise and credit for the masterly manner in which we settled the Cuban question. That little island republic created and guided by our government is today a member of the family of nations—free, prosperous and happy. We added Porto Rico and Hawaii to our national domain. We have given to the Philippines the best colonial government in existence anywhere and have set those poor, misguided Orientals upon the road to peace, prosperity and self-government. We carried to a successful close the two great wars fought for humanity during the past half century, the Civil and Spanish-American, and we emerged from both of these struggles with McKinley's favorite motto flying from the masthead of our ship of state, "Prosperity at home and prestige abroad." We are today no longer a hither nation but a world power which must be reckoned with in international affairs.

The annals of history do not afford a parallel to the marvelous progress made by the United States during the successive republican administrations of the past half century and the ability to solve every question that arose has been fully demonstrated. From its early beginning the republican party has been the party of protection—protection of American industries and labor. This tariff has vindicated itself again and again by stimulating the commercial, industrial and agricultural interests of the country. Wages were never higher and the standard of living of wage-earners, farmers and business-men has increased beyond all precedent and imagination. I come now to the third of my outline.

This enormous gain in prosperity has brought about a change in the industrial life. We are in an age of combination both of labor and of capital. This change in industrial life has brought with it new problems which are in the process of solution. Whenever a man or group of men find themselves possessed with too much power, the natural tendency is to abuse that power. But we must be hostile to a corporation merely because it is a corporation. If we proceed on any such unreasoning basis, it would only involve our industries in ruin and bring disaster to thousands of investors and workers. This is an age of big business, of great organizations for great results. The necessary agency is the corporation. If these corporations are capable of doing good we must conserve them; if rapacious or dishonest men manage or rather mismanage them, we must regulate and check the evils, punish the miscreants, but save the factors of the present stockholders and workers. This has been and is the policy of President Roosevelt, and has been, is and will be the attitude of our next president, Mr. Taft. The great question that the American people must decide on Tuesday is, "Shall the work of checking the evils growing up under changing economic conditions be left to a capable and able administrator like Mr. Taft or shall it be left to inexperienced visionaries like Bryan, Dobs, Hagen or Chidder?" Mr. Taft has repeatedly expressed himself clearly and emphatically to carry out to a letter the president's warfare against the abuses of corporations doing an interstate business. Not one act in the whole life of Mr. Taft can be cited by his opponents to in any way doubt the sincerity and truthfulness of his statements.

The republican party and Mr. Taft have promised a revision of the tariff at a special session of Congress to be convened next March. Now all parties promise the same, but they differ as to the principle involved. A revision of the tariff is a great and difficult task and any revision ought to be made by the friends. The people of the United States want revision of the tariff with the policy of protection maintained. They do not want tariff revision with the idea of free trade upermost. Hence they will elect Taft, for the election of any one else will not mean revision at all as the senate will be republican during the next four years no matter how the election this fall will end, and only a republican House can safely cooperate with a republican senate.

The great trouble that has arisen regarding the question of the writs of injunction seems to arise from the fact that judges have at times exceeded their orders in the issuance of these writs. There never has been any well defined rules governing the same to guide those judges. The fact that the writs of injunction have been issued by judges at times has caused much trouble and has led to the fact that Congress should more clearly state by statute just when and just when not these writs should be issued and also let the party restrained be made aware of the writ so that he may prepare his defense. That seems to me to be perfectly fair.

The republican party is not afraid to trust the laboring man in this campaign for his condition has improved greatly under its rule. Let me explain: There are at the present time 30 republican states and 16 democratic states. 23 of the republican states have factory inspection laws and only 6 of the democratic states. Of the 22 states having boards of arbitration, 18 are republican and 4 are democratic. Of the 27 states preventing labor of children under 14 years, 23 are republican and 4 are democratic. Of the 46 states preventing child labor, 23 are republican and 12 are democratic. Nationally the past congress re-enacted the employers' liability act, strengthened the safety appliance act, passed the government compensation act, an act investigating mine disasters, the child labor act, etc. I believe that government statisticians will bear me out when I say that no administration since the beginning of our history has done so much for labor through the passing of remedial legislation as has the present administration of Mr. Roosevelt.

The republicans do not believe in the democratic plan for the guaranteeing of deposits in national banks because of the unfairness to wisely managed banks and the fact that it would be premium upon speculation. But in place of the scheme we suggest the postal savings scheme, a plan undeniably successful in many European countries.

The republican party is not a party of war, though it did carry to a successful close the two wars carried on for humanity—namely, the Civil and the Spanish-American. But we do believe in preparing so that if war should break out we would be ready. We rely upon our citizen soldiers to win our land battles, but vessels for our navy cannot be made ready for action as quickly as can a regiment of soldiers. Hence Messrs. Roosevelt and Taft believe in appropriations necessary to build a navy so that if war should come, our navy could take the initiative on the sea as our soldiers are always ready to do on land.

I come now to my third reason. The republican party has for its leader in this campaign a man of great moral and political force, a man of sterling, honest and upright character, a doer of things and not a dreamer, a man whose record of past achievements is almost unexampled in American history. Wm. H. Taft, Mr. Taft is a tried candidate; all others are upstarts. Mr. Taft has been schooled and cheered by years of experience; all others are inexperienced. Mr. Taft is wise, judicial and steady by past great responsibilities; all others are unstable, flighty and full of bomb. Judge Taft is a progressive, a practical and a moderate progressive man. The honest farmer, workman, business man, mechanic, man of small means, all feel that Mr. Taft is their representative. On the bench, in the Philippines, in Cuba, in the president's cabinet, he proved himself to be a wise and upright servant of the whole people. The election of any other would be an experiment; Taft's election a sure guarantee of practical and courageous government. Some of the others have ever conducted the government of a city, county, state or nation; Mr. Taft has been a U. S. judge, a governor, an attorney-general and secretary of war.

To summarize: Candidate Sherman strikes the nail squarely on the head when he says that the overshadowing issue in this campaign is: "Shall the administration of President Roosevelt be approved? Shall a party of demonstrative capacity be continued in power?" A vote against Taft is a vote against the progressive Rooseveltian policies of the past seven years. With the past record of the republican party to inspire confidence, with its present principles to assure a continuation of good government and with a standard bearer of ability, experience and character, we confidently await the verdict of the American people.

HALLOWE'N REVELS MILD IN CHARACTER

No Serious Depredations by the "Spooks" Have Thus Far Been Reported to the Police.

The Halloween revels Saturday evening were largely confined to innocent pranks and no serious depredations in any part of the city have thus far been reported. A flight of steps leading into the old laboratory near the high school, now used by Dolaney & Murphy for a cigar factory, was overturned and a "Cat Foot" sign removed from A. M. Valenzuela's property in the Third ward was placed at the base of the Soldiers' monument in the Court House park. A special officer was on duty in each ward and Deputy Sheriff William Dill, who was on duty in the Fifth ward, caused several members of a gang of first ward boys, disguised as Indians, who were prowling about on mischief bent in that locality. The sewer contractors had a force of their own laborers on guard and no damage was done to the piping or trenches. It was supposed that the brass signs at the doorway of J. M. Bostwick & Sons' establishment had been carried away by "spooks" but the police were informed this morning that one of the members of the firm had taken the precaution to remove them immediately after business hours Saturday night. The usual number of public dances and Halloween parties at private homes were in progress and Young America amused itself throwing beans and corn and cabbages and tying of tripping ropes across the sidewalks. Chief Appleby and the regular force, as well as the "spooks," were alert and watchful and the patrol wagon kept in waiting, but only two complaints were received at the station.

Campaign Issues Discussed by Mr. Govern tonight.

OPPOSE ATTEMPT TO RAISE SCHOOL AGE

Teachers do Not Favor Constitutional Amendment Raising
School Age.

Efforts will be made at the Wisconsin Teachers' association which will be held in Milwaukee the middle of this month to have the association make a unanimous stand against the proposed constitutional amendment raising the minimum school age from four to six. Prof. H. C. Buell, president of the state association, will do all in his power to bring about this result and L. D. Harvey and other prominent educators in the state are now carrying on a campaign of education on this question.

Destroy Kindergarten.
The chief objection to this amendment is that it will destroy the kindergartens. While this is not so important in the northern part of the state, it will render useless thousands of dollars of equipment in the southern part of the state, where the kindergarten system is well organized and will stop all work of this nature in the schools in the future.

Miss Armstrong, of the science department of the high school, at the opening exercises this morning gave a second talk with a number of clever and gave a very interesting description of the city and country.

Second Operation.
Saturday Prof. Vlyman, who has been at the Mercy Hospital for some time recovering from an operation for appendicitis, was again operated upon for an abscess which had formed. He felt much better and stronger yesterday. The doctors feel that there is no danger.

BRILLIANT IRISH JOURNALIST
PASSES SIXTIETH MILESTONE.

London, Eng.—Tay Pay O'Connor, known the world over for his brilliant work in journalism and politics, is loved by the English speaking people as one of the most characteristic examples of the Anglo-Irishman. After completing a rather abbreviated college course he went, as a young boy, to London. In his scholastic days he had mastered German and French. St. Petersburg is a good place for students to migrate to, as the male population outnumbers the female 121,000, and the same proportion exists in other parts of Russia. In consequence there is quite a commerce in brides and many men in the provinces are said to make money by peddling as guardians for pretty girls and selling them at good prices.

PREDICTIONS OF RESULTS IN STATES

CLOSE OBSERVERS IN DOUBT ABOUT NEW YORK.

INDIANA NOT YET CERTAIN

Both Parties Are Hopeful in Wisconsin, Nebraska, Montana and Nevada—The Situation in Illinois.

New York, Nov. 2.—The New York state campaign, which has been in full swing for more than a month, is practically at an end. Both Democratic and Republican state leaders claimed Monday to be confident of success. Close political observers who have canvassed the state from end to end, however, frankly admit that they are in doubt and that there is no possible way in which the result can be forecasted.

The Republicans claim the national ticket will win in New York by a large majority, and the Democrats, though not admitting this, are not loud in their claims of carrying the state for Bryan.

Both Hopeful in Indiana. Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 2.—Outside of conferences among the political leaders of both parties there was little doing in a political way in Indiana Sunday and Monday. While the Democrats seem hopeful that Bryan will carry the state, the Republican leaders are confident that Taft will carry Indiana, although they were not inclined to give out any specific figures.

Gov. Johnson Claims 50,000. St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 2.—The campaign in Minnesota will close Monday night, when Gov. John A. Johnson, Democrat, will make his closing address in St. Paul, and his Republican opponent, J. P. Jacobson, will make his final appeal to the voters at Minneapolis. The gubernatorial race is claimed by both parties, the Democrats claiming Johnson's re-election by 50,000 plurality, while the Republicans say Jacobson has been gaining strength during the closing days of the campaign and will be elected by a safe plurality. Indications are that Taft will receive a plurality of from 30,000 upwards in the presidential contest.

Neither Yields in Wisconsin. Milwaukee, Nov. 2.—The eyes of the state will watch for the returns from Trempealeau county on Tuesday night, for the returns from the contest for the assembly of Speaker Herman L. Ekern (La Follette Republican), who is an independent candidate against Albert T. Tiesman, the primary nominee. Senator La Follette went through the district making several speeches for Ekern, while Gov. Davidson spent two days talking for Tiesman's election.

Both Republican and Democratic state chairmen reassert their claims that their respective parties will carry the state and national tickets.

Hot Wind-Up for Lincoln. Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 2.—The two state political headquarters will not be closed until after election and the Nebraska result is known, but the work is finished and the rooms practically deserted. Monday night will see in Lincoln the greatest demonstration in this state. Mr. Bryan is expected to reach home in the early evening and will make his final address of the campaign from the balcony of a hotel in the heart of the business district.

The Republicans, to offset the effect of the Bryan meeting, have arranged for a big demonstration and will hold two meetings, one at the Auditorium and another on the state house grounds.

Confidence in victory was expressed by both parties, but no further claims than those previously made were offered.

Republicans Sure of Michigan.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 2.—Chairman C. J. Wokoma of the Republican state central committee Sunday issued a statement predicting that Michigan Republicans on Tuesday will win another victory all along the line, electing all of their state ticket, 12 congressmen and, with few exceptions, all their legislative and county candidates, in addition to rolling up a large majority for Taft and Sherman. Chairman Wokoma said: "Precinct reports from every nook and corner of the state justify the most confident prediction that our majorities will reach 100,000."

Kansas Probably for Taft.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 2.—There was no abatement in political activity in Kansas Monday. William J. Bryan arrived at Kansas City, Kan., early in the morning, delivered an address there and spoke at several towns where his train stopped on the way to Lincoln. A normal Republican majority for Taft, the state ticket and eight Republican congressmen is expected.

North Dakota 30,000 for Taft.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 2.—Leaders of both parties claim majorities ranging from five to ten thousand for their respective candidates for governor, with the most conservative members willing to admit that the contest will be the closest in the history of the state. Taft's majority is placed at 30,000. The biggest Republican meeting of the campaign will be held here Monday evening. The last effort of Gov. John Burke was exerted Monday in Ward county, the home of C. A. Johnson, Republican candidate for governor.

Missouri Safe for Bryan. St. Louis, Nov. 2.—Conservative and careful observers are generally agreed that the state will give its electoral vote to Bryan by a substantial majority, and that Cowherd has an advantage over Attorney General Hadley (Rep.) in the gubernatorial contest.

Latest Picture of Mrs. Clau dia Hains and a fac simile of the letter which will be in evidence of the Hains trial.

New York, Nov. 2.—A remarkable packet of letters written by Mrs. Clau Hains to her husband, Capt. Peter C. Hains, were found recently in Ft. Hamilton by an army officer friendly to the imprisoned Hains brothers. These will be turned over to Attorney McAty, to be used in defense of the soldiers. The letters, aside from showing that Mrs. Hains was no novice in drinking, smoking, gambling and smoking cigars, also made interesting disclosures as to the social distance among officers' families at Ft. Hamilton barracks.

Among other things Mrs. Hains writes of a visit to Mrs. Hains, where her husband was confined in his room, and shortly after she had received Mr. Hains in her bedroom a Captain P. called and joined them, and they "sat on the floor and drank." Prior to the officer's arrival Mrs. Hains had consumed two glasses of whiskey, she writes, and had also "brown dice and come out ahead."

The contents of the letter, which is signed with "lots of kisses from your affectionate wife, Clau," is as follows:

"Oklahoma Vote is Bryan's."

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 2.—Careful observers say that Tuesday's vote will furnish no surprises. Estimates of Bryan's plurality are generally above 30,000 and the best the Republican leaders hope for is to hold two congressional seats now occupied by Republicans.

Bryan Probably Wins Kentucky.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 2.—The Bryan men declare their candidate will poll at least 15,000 more votes than his opponent, while the Republican managers claim the state with 10,000 as their bottom figure. Impartial observers say the winner's plurality will be comparatively small with the chances favoring Bryan.

Montana Very Close.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 2.—That a single vote may decide the election for governor and presidential electors is the belief expressed by conservative people throughout the state. Both sides are claiming small majorities.

Nevada Still in Doubt.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 2.—A spirit of confidence pervades both the Democratic and Republican headquarters. While the Republicans do not claim the state by as great a plurality as the Democrats, yet they think Taft will land safely with 2,000.

Conditions in Illinois.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Fighting to the last minute, both Republicans and Democrats claim a victory in the gubernatorial race and no impartial observer is willing to predict the certain election of either Deen or Stevenson. As to the national ticket, the Republicans say they are sure to carry the state for Taft by a handsome majority, and their claim seems justified.

Iowa 50,000 Republican?

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 2.—The Republican managers Sunday night reasserted their claim that they will carry the state for the national ticket by 50,000 plurality and will elect their entire state ticket. At Democratic headquarters the claim was made that White would be elected governor and that three out of eleven congressmen would be successful.

SOCIETY LEADER DIES IN GOTHAM

MRS. WILLIAM ASTOR PASSES AWAY AT HER HOME.

LONG A SOCIAL LIGHT

New York Woman Who Was Known as First Among American Aristocrats Taken by Death—Heart Trouble Cause.

New York, Oct. 31.—Mrs. William Astor, who for 20 years had been regarded as the social leader of New York, died Friday night of heart disease at her home on Fifth avenue.

For nearly four weeks Mrs. Astor, who was 82 years old, had been in a critical condition owing to the return of a heart affection that had given her trouble for years.

There is not a name in the social register that is so well known from one end of the land to the other as that of Mrs. Astor. Despite her advancing years, Mrs. Astor continued to hold her social domination up to a year ago, when failing health compelled her to retire into comparative seclusion.

In ill health a year.

It was in the summer of 1907 that Mrs. Astor's friends learned of her ill health. While she was abroad last year her son, Col. John Jacob Astor, made the announcement that Beechwood, the summer home of Mrs. Astor at Newport, would not be opened and this led to the discovery that Mrs. Astor was in poor health. Word came later from Mrs. Astor, who she was in Paris, saying that she would open her Newport villa and that she would make the season there one of the gayest in years.

This promise was not fulfilled, however, for when Mrs. Astor returned from abroad she broke down in Boston and had to return to New York. She had remained at her home ever since.

Established Famous "400."

The society functions given and presided over by Mrs. Astor have gone down into history as the most brilliant on record. It is said that the ballroom in the mansion on Fifth avenue would accommodate 1,000 people. It was Mrs. Astor who established the famous "400," her visiting list being confined to that number of names. In 1905, however, Mrs. Astor was said to have "let down the bars," when she invited 1,200 persons to one of the most memorable social events ever given in New York. Mrs. Astor received her guests at these gatherings seated in a high-backed chair beneath a portrait of herself, painted by Carolyn Duran.

Noted for Astor Jewels.

The Astor Jewels were worn by Mrs. Astor on these occasions. It is said the Astor emeralds are the finest in the world.

William Astor, who died in Paris in 1892, took little part in the social activities his wife enjoyed. Mrs. Astor, before marriage, was Miss Caroline Schermerhorn, a daughter of Abraham Schermerhorn, a well-to-do merchant. She was married to William Astor on September 23, 1842. John Jacob Astor was their only son. There were four daughters, two of them, Mrs. Ogilvie and Mrs. Orino Wilson, are now living. The eldest daughter, Miss Emily Astor, who married J. J. Van Alen, died some years ago, as did Miss Helen Astor, who married James Roosevelt-Roosevelt.

Thirty Hurt in Crash.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 31.—Thirty persons were injured, several of them seriously, when a coal train on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad crashed into a street car of the Wyoming Valley Traction Company Friday in Dorranceston, three miles from this city.

HITCHCOCK SEES G. O. P. VICTORY

REPUBLICAN CHAIRMAN MAKES ELECTION FORECAST.

JOHN D. 'HITS AT TAFT'

That is Statement of Roosevelt Regarding Information That Rockefeller Will Vote for Ticket—Candidate Roasts Gompers.

New York, Oct. 31.—In his forecast of the composition of the electoral college, which will choose the next president and vice-president of the United States, made public at Republican headquarters Saturday, National Chairman Hitchcock claims 335 Republican members, or 83 more than will be required to elect their candidates.

For the Republican ticket Mr. Hitchcock is sure of New York, Ohio and Indiana. He also includes in the Republican column Nebraska, Montana, Maryland and Nevada. In explaining his list, Mr. Hitchcock said that he believed that the chances were even in Kentucky and Missouri, with their 12 and 18 votes respectively. If by any chance any of the states claimed should go Democratic, he said they would be Maryland, Montana and Nevada, with a total of 14 votes. This would leave a Republican margin of 69 and of this advantage he expressed himself as perfectly confident.

Would Capture Southern Votes.

The national chairman does not include Tennessee and Oklahoma in his list and concedes that the chances in these states are against the Republican ticket. His forecast, Mr. Hitchcock said, was based upon information received by him up to Saturday from party leaders throughout the United States.

The states claimed for Taft and Sherman, with their electoral votes, follow:

California, 10; Colorado, 5; Connecticut, 7; Delaware, 3; Idaho, 3; Illinois, 27; Indiana, 15; Iowa, 13; Kansas, 10; Maine, 6; Maryland, 8; Massachusetts, 16; Michigan, 14; Minnesota, 11; Montana, 3; Nebraska, 8; Nevada, 3; New Hampshire, 4; New Jersey, 12; New York, 39; North Dakota, 4; Ohio, 23; Oregon, 4; Pennsylvania, 24; Rhode Island, 4; South Dakota, 4; Utah, 3; Vermont, 4; Washington, 5; West Virginia, 7; Wisconsin, 13; Wyoming, 3. Total, 325.

Says John D. Would Hurt Taft.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The following official statement was issued from the White House Friday night:

"At the White House, the announcement of Mr. Rockefeller through the press agent of the Standard Oil Company was regarded with some amusement, in view of what the administration has done to the Standard Oil Company and of the bitter hatred borne by the Standard Oil Company to the administration. It is a perfectly palpable and obvious trick on the part of the Standard Oil people to try to damage Taft—a trick so palpable that it can deceive no one."

Mack Calls It Bargain.

New York, Oct. 31.—Democratic National Chairman Mack, after reading the statement issued at the White House, where it was said some amusement was caused by the announcement of Mr. Rockefeller, in view of what the administration had done to the Standard Oil Company, said:

"The White House statement is its own answer. The bargain was made between Taft's managers and Rockefeller and concerns the possible future administration of Mr. Taft and not what the present administration has or has not done to the Standard Oil Company."

Taft Hammers Gompers.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Shedding hammer blows at the Gompers-Bryan labor legislation plans were delivered here Friday night by William H. Taft before two immense audiences. Mr. Taft gave the names of many labor leaders high in the councils of the American Federation of Labor who he said were leaving Mr. Gompers.

"The attempt of Mr. Gompers," he declared with great emphasis, "to deliver the labor vote of this country as an audacious act of political frontistry as has ever occurred in the history of politics. It is most reassuring to note that the men associated with Mr. Gompers in the executive council of the Federation of Labor are falling away from him in this effort of his to make the Federation of Labor a political factor."

Knox Stars at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 31.—United States Senator P. C. Knox, Lieut. Gov. Robert H. Murphy and Congressman William H. Graham were the principal speakers Friday night at what was practically the closing demonstration of the Republican party in Allegheny county. H. P. Jones, Jr., of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company presided at the meeting, which was held in Carnegie hall, North Side, formerly Allegheny City. Scores of Republican leaders of the country, serving as vice-presidents, occupied seats on the stage. Preceding the meeting the largest parade of the campaign was held.

Wall Street Lawyer in Prison.

New York, Oct. 31.—William H. Fickner, a lawyer with offices in Wall street, was sentenced Friday to one year's imprisonment in the penitentiary for grand larceny. Fickner was convicted for diverting to risky speculation $8,000 entrusted to him by two women for safe investment.

Domestic Economy.

They had automobilized in 21 miles to see Mr. Highflyer's pet oculist, and on the return three tires, one after another, had blown up. Whereupon Mrs. Highflyer remarked, plaintively, and with intense conviction: "My dear Alfred, it would have been so much cheaper to have kept you at home and bought you a glass eye!"

Archbishop Bound to Service.

The archbishop of Canterbury is required by ancient custom to prepare a plate of soup for the king, should his majesty at any time prefer a request or refreshment at the hands of the prelate.

AT THE PLAY HOUSES

There is a great deal of interest manifested by local theatregoers in the coming of Minnie Dupree in the Shuberts' superb comedy success, "The Road to Yesterday," which holds forth at the Myers theatre, Saturday evening, Nov. 7. The play is a delightful fantasy, wholesome and true, combining with a quantity of original play theme a deft touch of satire and the most appealing of comedy. It is a very interesting play that is certain to reach the heart of any one not hopelessly blind or painfully theatre worn. It has no "hidden meaning," no mystic symbolism to pad the vanity. It is a simple, honest play, well written by Mrs. Greenleaf Sutherland and Miss Beulah Marla Dix, and exceptionally well played by a competent company that includes Marshall Welsh, Amanda Wellington, Willis Marlin, Irene Oehler, Carl Anthony, Edward La Due, Charles West and a number of other capable artists. "The Road to Yesterday" comes direct from his long run at the Lyric theatre, New York city, where it played to the most enthusiastic of audiences. The play is in four acts and the production is magnificently staged.

MAP SHOWING THE LOCATION OF THE CENTER OF POPULATION AT EACH 10-YEAR CENSUS.

MAP SHOWING THE LOCATION OF THE CENTER OF POPULATION AT EACH 10-YEAR CENSUS.

Gradually moving westward along the 39th degree of latitude in the United States is an invisible spot known as the center of population. This wavers north and south only slightly, but is ever on its westward journey.

When Washington was president this point was over Chesapeake bay. The next census in 1800 located this directly north of the new capital at Washington, so when the site for the national seat of government was selected it was at about the center of population. Our forefathers did not, however, allow for the westward expansion, for to them even Washington was a long ways west.

Money-Making Ways of Using Want Ads

To Get a Position

Glance at the picture. It brings to mind the instance of many a successful man's life. You may be a young man or woman who has just come to the city—from the country, from college, from another city—or you may already live here. You have heard or known of the tramp, tramp, the cold, discouraging words of employers "We don't want anybody now," and the like. If you want a job and want it at once insert a little "Situation Wanted" ad on our Classified page or run over our "Help Wanted" ads. Employers read the former and use the latter. You get in touch with those who want help. Not necessary to go to expensive employment agencies. Your small Want Ad will cost but a few cents. Surely worth while to test. Note examples.

A SACRED DUTY

Every American citizen owes it to himself, as well as to his country, to exercise the right of franchise. This right is not only a privilege, but should be regarded as a sacred duty, for it carries with it responsibility of broad significance.

The average man is not a politician and possesses no ambition for public office. He prefers private life to public service, and in many cases is so indifferent that he cares but little for party or individual success.

This indifference is never excusable, and especially when national issues are in the balance. The election tomorrow is an epoch which occurs but once in four years. It is important because it touches directly or indirectly the welfare of every citizen.

Two great parties are contending for supremacy, and half a dozen smaller ones are clamoring for recognition. A large majority of the voters are allied with one or the other of the two great national parties, and the vote tomorrow will determine whether republicanism or Bryanism shall control the destinies of the nation for the next four years.

Every intelligent voter should be able to give a reason for the faith that is in him and this reason should be deeper than an inherited political creed. So much has been said about the two leading candidates that interest in the campaign has centered largely in the personality of the two men, and the parties which they represent have been sidetracked and overlooked.

This is unfortunate, for parties live long after men are forgotten because they are the foundation and life of a republican form of government. This fact is sometimes taboed by men who pride themselves on being independent voters, and too pure to associate with political parties, but the fact remains nevertheless.

Government by the people is never secured except through intelligent organization, and any effort to disrupt this organization, whether through the primary law, or any other monstrosity, is a menace to public welfare.

United effort is the only effort which accomplishes results in popular government, and the political party is the unit of organization. Men may change their political creeds, and this is frequently done, and always commendable when conditions warrant, but the man who deserts his party becomes a political orphan and however much he may flatter himself on independence of thought and action, his influence is nil.

The success of any worker in any field where organized effort is the motive power, is based on loyalty to the organization. When a man gets too good for his church he steps out and becomes an independent thinker, but soon discovers that he has nothing behind him.

Every man should vote tomorrow, and if he expects his vote to count, it should be cast for one or the other of the two great parties. If undecided as to choices, he will make no mistake in supporting the party in power, because it is the party of progress and accomplishment.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

The campaign, noted for lethargy and surface indifference, is over and tomorrow will determine results. Fear has been expressed because so little interest has been shown, but the round-up during the last ten days has convinced the most skeptical that while red fire and brass bands have been doing their own thinking, and when the votes are counted tomorrow night, it will be found that they have thought to a purpose.

The farmer with his $8,000,000,000 crop behind him is satisfied to let well enough alone. He does not care to experiment with a party committed to free trade, for he has discovered that the home market is the best market in the world, and he proposes to keep it good by supporting a party which will keep the factories running, and labor fully employed.

Labor, both organized and unorganized, has thought the question out to a finish and the result of this vote will show intelligent and wise decision.

The businessmen of the country are practically a unit in advocating republican policies and principles. Some of them have been life-long democrats, but Bryanism has never appealed to them.

The republican party may not be perfect, but it is by far and away the best political organization in the country. It is the party of strength and achievement, with a well defined policy.

The man Taft, who will be the next president, is the best equipped man in the nation for that important office. Like Roosevelt in many ways, but less radical and more conservative, he will serve the people intelligently and bring out of confusion, order. The blazed trail which an aggressive president has outlined, will become a highway, under the direction of Wm. H. Taft and the backing of a party in sympathy with him. Vote the republican ticket, and you will make no mistake.

Elect the best men to represent you at the coming session of the legislature. The republicans have four good, true and tried businessmen on their ticket—Whitehead for the state senate, Whitall in the first district, Fisher in the second and Smith in the third.

Bishop Hamilton of the Methodist church endorses "Uncle Joe" Cannon in a letter which will be published this week in the church paper. The Tribune publishes the letter today. It is strong and full of common sense.

The election returns will be received at the Gazette office tomorrow evening and thrown onto a screen in front of the office as fast as received. The public are invited to watch them.

Governor Davidson has shown his spirit by supporting the republican nominee for the assembly, Twine, against Ebern, the independent nominee.

When it comes to a question of record there is no real comparison between Taft and Bryan. One has done real things; the other has talked.

There will be plenty of men Wednesday who will be able to tell you how it all happened or might have been changed.

Debs appears to have made friends in many districts by his whirlwind "Red Speech" trip.

Results from New York and Ohio will show how strong Taft sentiment is in these two districts.

A vote for Taft tomorrow is a vote for prosperity. Every voter should remember this.

It is the duty of every citizen to cast his ballot tomorrow.

The republican county ticket deserves a vote from top to bottom.

SALUTING A STATUE.

The character of Peter in E. Hopkinson Smith's latest book of that name is a fine old gentleman who lifts his hat to the statue of George Washington.

This is the way the author tells it: "Peter wheeled and lifted his hat to the statue. 'Good morning, your excellency,' he said in a voice mellowed by the same respectful tone with which he would have addressed the original in the flesh."

The companion laughs at the strange conceit, whereat Peter says:

"He won't put there for ornament, my boy, but to be kept in mind, and there is no place in the world where his example is so much needed as in Wall street. Nobody reverences anything nowadays. . . . Even our presidents have to be murdered before we stop abusing them."

Afterward, moralizing, Peter says: "Into our may go respect for tradition, reverence for the dead, decency, love of religion, sentiment, beauty. They are back numbers."

"Do you wonder, my boy, why I touch my hat to his excellency?"

Not was Peter a crank.

He was the hard headed paying teller of a Wall street bank.

BUT—he had old fashioned ideals. Indeed, this novel itself is a story of the clash between modern business and idealism.

Perhaps Peter was too sweeping in his indictment, but it is true that lack of reverence is the crying sin of our day.

Fancy one of the money mad brokers lifting his hat to that statue of Washington across from the subway! Impossible!

To such a man, absorbed in money, tradition has no glamour, greatness has no precedence, goodness has no prestige, heroism makes no appeal, and the "tender grace of a day that is dead" is nothing to him.

And what of the boy who calls his parents "the old man" and "the old lady," to whom father's advice is only "dopey"? And the girl distressed at mother's accent and ashamed of her table manners? What of these youngsters who deprecate the experience of the old folks?

Imagine such youngsters saluting the statue of "that old party," George Washington!

Peter Grayson was right. Lack of reverence for parents, teachers, the aged; lack of reverence for tradition and for righteousness—for these the statue of George Washington is a perpetual rebuke.

To My Fellow Citizens of Rock County:

I have been honored by the Democratic party as its nominee for Congress for the First Congressional District. It was my desire and intention to visit every precinct in the District and have done so as far as possible in view of the business demands upon my time. I am not a politician but the great public questions are essentially business propositions and from the standpoint of business I feel qualified to fully serve the great business and farming interests of the District. A vote for me on November 3rd will be an emphatic protest against professional politics and in favor of one who will devote his every energy to the service of the people.

VERY RESPECTFULLY,

H. A. NOEHLENPAH.

The Cup of Coffee You Liked Best

Somewhere, sometime back in the last five years you have had a cup of coffee that was just right. It is probable that if you had inquired you would have found that the lady who made it knew how to make good coffee, but it is more probable that she had good coffee to make it from. It is more than likely that she used Golden Blend, because Golden Blend is used in at least one-third of all the homes in Janesville, and because Golden Blend is a blend that fully satisfies 9-10th of all the people. This blend is the result of years of experience in the handling and study of coffee. It is not particularly a strong coffee, neither is it particularly mild, but is of smooth flavor characteristic of the South American coffees, from which the base of Golden Blend is made, and is of a delightful aroma. Fully twenty per cent of my present customers have used Golden Blend continuously for the past six years. Fully twenty-five per cent of all the homes in Janesville now use Golden Blend. These two facts stand as mute testimony of its quality. If you have not used Golden Blend and will try a pound upon my recommendation, and if Golden Blend does not exactly suit your taste, I will blend specially for you. I will make it milder or stronger, more smooth or more of an acid flavor. I will blend in one-half pound lots until I have suited your taste, and give you the coffee free. Then your coffee troubles will be over for all time to come. This is an age in which the specialist succeeds. I am a coffee specialist, and with this offer before you there is no reason why any woman should not have just the coffee she wants. Call me up today.

County Chairman McManara urges upon every voter to be present to hear the campaign issues fully discussed and also makes a special invitation to the ladies who may desire to be present and witness it understood there will be seats put aside for their use.

In Edgerton the campaign will be closed by a round-up rally at which John L. Fisher and W. H. Dougherty will be the orators of the evening and in Beloit where James Monahan will be the speaker following an old-fashioned torch-light parade.

Mr. McGovern will arrive from Milwaukee this evening at six o'clock and will be met at the depot by a committee and escorted to the Myers hotel.

OFFICIAL BALLOT

If you desire to vote an entire party ticket for state, congressional, legislative and county offices and presidential electors, make a cross (X) or other mark in the circle (O) under the party designation at the head of the ballot. If you desire to vote for particular persons without regard to party, mark in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom you desire to vote if it be there, or write any name that you wish to vote for, in the proper place. If you desire to vote for state, congressional, legislative and county offices of one party and presidential electors of another party, make a cross (X) or other mark in the circle (O) at the head of the party ticket and also make a cross (X) or other mark in the ☐ at the right of the names of the candidates for president and vice-president you desire to vote for.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS.

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters: A voter upon entering the polling place and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk which shall have indorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for.

If a voter wishes to vote for all the candidates nominated by any party he shall make a cross or other mark under the party designation printed at the top of the ballot in the circle made for that purpose. A ballot so marked and having no other mark will be counted for all the candidates of that party in the column underneath, unless the names of some of the candidates of the party have been crossed or a name shall be written in or a cross mark be placed in the square at the right of the name or names of candidates in another column. If the voter does not wish to vote for all the candidates nominated by one party, he shall mark his ballot by marking a cross or mark in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote or by inserting or writing in the name of the candidate.

A voter may vote for an entire group of candidates for presidential electors by making a cross (X) or mark in the square at the right of the names of candidates for president and vice president, whose names appear in the column above the names of the candidates for presidential electors, or he may vote for the candidates for presidential electors by making a cross (X) or mark in the square at the right of the name of each candidate for elector for whom he wishes to vote. If a voter does not wish to vote for any one or more candidates for presidential electors in the group, he may erase the name of such candidate or candidates and the cross (X) or mark at the right of the names of the candidates for president and vice president shall count as a vote for each of the other candidates for presidential electors in such group whose names are not erased. If a voter wishes to vote for another person in place of a candidate whose name he has crossed, he may insert or write in the name of each such person in one of the spaces in the blank column at the right of the ticket. If a voter does not wish to vote for any candidates for president or vice president or for any presidential electors, whose names appear upon the ballot, he may insert or write in the names of the candidates for president and vice president, and presidential electors to a number equal to the number of electors to be elected, in the appropriate spaces in the blank column at the right of the ballot.

A voter may vote upon a question submitted to a vote of the people by making a cross (X) or mark in the square at the right of the answer which he intends to give.

The ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the ballots spoiled, it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all shall be issued to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memoranda to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth, and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter.

After it is marked it should be folded so that the folds cannot be seen, but so that the printed indorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Thence the voter should pass out of the booth or compartment, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box, and pass out of the voting place.

A voter, who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of one or two election officers in marking same, to be chosen by the voter; and if he declares that he is totally blind, he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath in his discretion as to such person's disability.

The party designations and candidates for the different offices, are for example, as follows:

GREEN SPOTS IN WILDERNESS.

Relieve the Desolation of Desert of Northern Chile.

Northern Chile, which is a largely mountain or desert, is generally regarded as a forbidden wilderness, but in spite of its natural desolation the landscape presents a scene of great beauty under the softening hues of sunset, and here and there in the waste of sand and salt may be found, by looking for them, a number of oases, the most conspicuous of which are Pica and Matilla. These oases are supplied with water from the high Andes, but the particular streams that support their life are not certainly known. It has been found that in various parts of the great Atacama desert the earth underneath the surface layer of sand or salt is sufficiently moist to grow crops, capillary attraction spreading the water through the soil. The rainless Atacama desert is the scene of the greatest industry of its kind in the world, yielding enormous quantities of nitrates, used to enrich the fields of Europe and the United States. The oases play a very important economic role in the industries of the region, supplying vegetables and foodstuffs for the support of the workmen, alfalfa for the cattle, and various fruits, and also serving as timber producers for the nitrate works, which require much fuel. There is no part of the world where agriculture is more extensively carried on than in these green spots in the Atacama desert.—Zion's Herald.

LITTLE TRAFFIC ON THE NILE.

Not Much Use Made of Water Transportation in Egypt.

It is a curious fact that the Nile and most of the canals in Egypt run north and south. The wind blows nearly all the year from the north, and thus furnishes the cheapest propelling power for boats going south. When the boats return north the rapid current of the Nile is the motive power. The regularity of the wind and the steadiness of the current are two reasons why boats propelled by any other power are so little used. Time is not so important an element in business in Egypt as in some other countries, and it does not matter, therefore, that boats propelled by wind or current are slow. But not so much use is made of water transportation in Egypt as one might think, in view of the possibilities offered by the Nile and the many canals throughout the Delta. The Nile is navigable for many hundred miles. The first cataract is at Assuan, but there is no interruption of traffic until Wadi Halfa is reached, 800 miles from Cairo. The primary object of the canals is to distribute water for irrigation, but they are really broad and deep water courses, easily navigable by sailing boats and small steam tugs. With Egypt's awakening the value of these canals will soon be realized.

No Need to Come to Court.

"There was a lawyer in Cincinnati who was noted for the strength of his lungs and the vehemence with which he would roar out his remarks to the court," said a jurist. "He had a case down for argument one morning, but was unable to be present. A clerk appeared and asked the judge to put over the case until two o'clock that afternoon. 'Where will Mr. — be just before two o'clock?' queried the judge. 'In his office, your honor,' replied the clerk. 'And that is how far from here?' continued the judge. 'About three-quarters of a mile,' said the clerk. 'Tell Mr. — not to bother coming way up here to court,' said the judge. 'Let him make his argument right from his office. We can hear him just as well as though he were in court.'"

Husband and Wife.

No man yet was ever made more tender by having fondness demanded of him; no man yet was ever cried into loving his wife more. I am willing to admit that men are as faulty creatures as women themselves, unsympathetic in small things, often blind and that they may easily be exasperated into small brutalities of speech. If a woman refrains from exacting devotion and is unwaveringly kind and unselfish, a husband who has any affection for his wife at all can be left to look out for doing his share. He will look out for it anyway; no one else can make him. Neither tears nor entreaties will bring from him those small kindnesses and attentions so dear to women.—A Wife, in Harper's Bazar.

MISS MARY L. DENTON AND THE NEW BATTLESHIP NORTH DAKOTA, WHICH SHE SPONSORED

The new battleship is a sister ship to the Delaware, recently launched, and is the largest and most elaborately equipped unit in the United States navy. It has 20,000 tons displacement and a length over all of 518 feet and 9 inches. It will require 25,000 indicated horse power to push this giant through the water at the required speed. When completed she will carry ten 12-inch guns and 14 5-inch rapid firing guns. In her secondary battery she will have four 3-pound semi-automatic, two 3-inch field guns and two 20-calibre automatic guns. In addition to this she also has two 21-inch submarine torpedo tubes and is equipped with two of the new type military standing abreast. The Curtis turbine engine has been selected to furnish the power taking less room than reciprocating engines used on other United States ships. It will require 55 officers and 878 men to man the vessel. The total cost to the United States when completed will be about $7,000,000.

As the latest addition to Uncle Sam's fighting forces slips into the water Miss Mary L. Denton of Fargo, N. D., will sponsor the new American Dreadnought.

Miss Denton is the charming and cultured daughter of Col. and Mrs. John D. Denton. Colonel Denton is one of the most prominent citizens of the state and is at the present time a member of Governor Burke's staff. Miss Denton has been educated in this country and abroad and has traveled considerably. The last few years of her life have been devoted to art. She is very accomplished and has quite a name for herself in miniature painting. Miss Denton is tall and slender, very graceful and attractive and a leader in the exclusive social forces of Fargo.

STATEMENTS OF CHAIRMEN

Taft Gets 325 Electoral Votes, Says Hitchcock—Bryan Will Have 333 If Mack Is Right.

New York, Nov. 2.—At both Republican and Democratic headquarters in this city Sunday it was announced that the work of the respective organizations in the campaign of 1908 was at an end. National Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock, of the Republican committee, and National Chairman Norman E. Mack, of the Democratic committee Monday went home to vote and will return to this city Tuesday afternoon to receive returns at headquarters. Mr. Hitchcock went to West Newton, Mass., and Mr. Mack to Buffalo.

Mrs. Mack and Hitchcock adhered to the forecasts given out on Friday and Saturday, the Democratic chairman contending that Mr. Bryan will receive 333 votes and Mr. Hitchcock announcing himself as positive in his belief that Mr. Taft will have 325 votes in the electoral college. As only 242 votes are necessary to elect, both chairmen are figuring on wide margins for their respective candidates.

Taft and Bryan Busy to Last.
While the national chairmen believe that all has been done that can be done to elect their chiefs, the candidates themselves will continue in the fight until practically the last minute. Mr. Taft, after spending Sunday in Buffalo, went Monday morning to Cleveland, O., where he speaks in the afternoon, and to Youngstown, where he speaks at night, hurrying thence to Cincinnati to vote on Tuesday and hear the results of the election.

Mr. Bryan planned to sit on Monday campaigning in northwestern Kansas and will be at Lincoln for a homecoming demonstration in the evening.

What the Chairmen Say.
Mr. Mack declared Sunday that "the only thing that can defeat Mr. Bryan is the corrupt use of money." He said he had sent his last instructions to state chairmen to get out their vote early and to see that it was fairly counted.

"We are through," said Chairman Hitchcock. "Our fight is won. It was made on the plans agreed upon at the beginning of the campaign."

Mr. Hitchcock announced that there had come to be any doubt as to Republican success in such states as Indiana, Ohio and New Jersey—all claimed by Mr. Mack—and he was added by a member of his staff that the Republican national committee is as sure of New York as it is of Pennsylvania.

Republican County Chairman Parsons of New York county summarized the situation in Manhattan and the Bronx, two of the five boroughs included in Greater New York, thus:
"If Mr. Bryan carries New York county at all it will be by a plurality of from 40,000 to 60,000. District leaders believe that Gov. Hughes will run not more than 20,000 behind Taft in this county."

Basis of Democratic Claims.
Mr. Mack said that his claim that Bryan and Kern will receive 333 votes in the electoral college is based on reports received from state chairmen and from private sources. State Chairman Conners has predicted that Bryan will receive more than 40,000 plurality in New York and that Mr. Chandler will get more than 100,000.

The Democratic national committee bases its belief that Mr. Bryan will be elected on the following four reasons, which have been incorporated into a statement by National Committeeman Josephus Daniels, chairman of the literary bureau:
"Bryan will be elected because the Democracy to-day presents a united front. Further, the Democratic party will be augmented by thousands of Republicans dissatisfied with the mistakes of 12 years of Republican administration."

"The army of voters will be further strengthened by a new force in American politics—the labor vote. Assuming there were to be a strict party line up at election, the labor vote itself would turn the scales to Democratic success. The labor party has put all its eggs in the Democratic basket and it must win to save them."
"Mr. Bryan, himself, has gained wonderful personal strength in the last few years in all parts of the country and thousands of voters who neither understood him nor his aims, now place their absolute trust in him and his policies."

"The Democratic national committee has brought all the elements of the party together. It has the labor vote and its remarkable accession of strength from the Republican ranks together with Mr. Bryan's strength with the masses, are the reasons why this nation will turn to Democracy."
Mr. Mack in a statement Sunday night attacked the Republican party for not immediately making their campaign contributions public.

It is estimated that fully 40,000 men representing the Holy Name societies of the Roman Catholic churches in the five counties which constitute the diocese, with over 150 priests, participated, marching to the music of 100 bands. Thousands of spectators filled every point of vantage along the line of march.

DUTCH MAY SOON MOVE ON CASTRO

TIME SET BY THE ULTIMATUM
ALREADY HAS EXPIRED.

VENEZUELA DOESN'T YIELD

Blockade of Its Ports by Warships of
The Netherlands Is Expected—
Citizens of La Guaira
Alarmed.

Willemstad, Nov. 2.—The Netherlands government fixed November 1 as the limit of time for Venezuela to revoke the decrees of President Castro, issued on May 14, prohibiting the transshipment of goods for Venezuelan ports at Curaçao. President Castro has refused to revoke this decree, but as yet, so far as is known here the Netherlands government has not decided upon definite action.

There has been much activity here, but in an interview Sunday the governor of Curaçao said that Holland ought to have assurances that Venezuela had not revoked the decree at the last hour of the day fixed according to the ultimatum before taking any active measures. He believed that his government had made ample preparations for any eventuality. The opinion is held among naval officers here that no direct steps will be taken within a week.

Venezuela Expects Blockade.

There is no question that Venezuela believes the Netherlands government is preparing to blockade their ports. Advice received by the steamer, Zulu from Maracaibo state that it was reported on October 24 that President Castro had ordered the mobilization of 50,000 troops to be ready November 2. Two days later there were rumors in Maracaibo that Gen. Nicholas Rolando, who previously had been charged with leading a revolutionary movement in Venezuela, was crossing the frontier with 20,000 men from Cuenca, Colombia. No further account of this movement could be learned because mail and telegraphic communications with Cuenca were suspended the following day. Large shipments of powder and shells have been received at Port San Carlos on Maracaibo lake, and there is much activity around the frontier.

At Willemstad a wireless system has been established so that uninterrupted service can now be secured. The last target practice of the Dutch warships showed 75 per cent. of hits, while the vessels were making a speed of 12 knots.

People of La Guaira Alarmed.

Curaçao, Oct. 24, via Willemstad, Nov. 2.—Alarm is increasing among the residents of the port of La Guaira in view of the extensive military preparations which have been going on to meet the threatened action of the Netherlands government. President Castro has been in poor health, but, after several postponements he was able to receive the credentials of Lorenzo Pereira, the new Brazilian minister.

Dr. Julian P. Thomas Badly Hurt.
New York, Nov. 2.—While experimenting late Sunday with his "wind wagon," Dr. Julian P. Thomas, the aeronaut, met with an accident at the Morris park experiment grounds of the Aeronautical society. Dr. Thomas was carried to the clubhouse unconscious. The physicians who were called decided that he had suffered no internal injuries, but still feared that serious spinal trouble would result.

Governor Burned in Effigy.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 2.—A special from Scottsboro, Ala., says the people of Larkinsville, Ala., a small village, held a meeting and burned Gov. Comer in effigy. Their indignation was aroused over the refusal of the governor to appoint Walter McCutcheon, son of the late Judge W. W. McCutcheon, to the probate judgeship, made vacant by the death of Judge McCutcheon.

Don't Fail To Get In On This Big Bonus Offer
Before 10 O'clock Tonight—Anything Mailed Tonight Will Be Accepted As Today's Business And Will Count On A Bonus.

Last Day For This Bonus Offer
A certificate for 10,000 votes will be given with every $30.00 worth of business turned into the office by next Monday night at 10 P. M. This includes both "old" and "new" subscribers, and the certificate is given in addition to the regular votes issued on each subscription. All business previously turned in, and not checked off in one of the "club" offers will be included in this proposition. Get at least one of the certificates.

At no stage of the contest has the enthusiasm reached a greater degree of development. At 10 o'clock tonight the limit on the bonus vote expires and the wiser contestants are working faithfully up to the last minute in order to create a reserve fund of strength which may be drawn on next Saturday night.

Apparently a large number of the Gazette's live contestants are getting ready to take a plunge in the voting market. From now on they can go as far as they like.

"Well, I suppose it's a case of start out tomorrow morning and begin all over again."

The speaker was a contestant who had worked quietly and with some system all week. He had neglected himself handsomely and was permitted the satisfaction of going to bed Saturday night with the knowledge that he had gotten in on the bonus vote offer and therefore had a nice little account in the vote bank. And this week that man will work harder and throw more enthusiasm into his work because he realizes just how great are the opportunities. He isn't wasting any time regretting past mistakes, but he's profiting by them. And how about you?

Are you in this contest? Are you out to win. Are you working for votes today? NOW? The work you have done in the past counts, but it is the work you do now that will win for you. The man who makes most of his living and works in the NOW, but he never forgets that there is a tomorrow. And he does on the morning a little more than he did today. He is the man who forces himself to the front and makes himself popular. How is it with you? If you are spending your time dreaming about the things you did yesterday STOP IT!

WAKE UP! GET UP! CATCH UP!
The PROCESSION IS MOVING AHEAD. Don't become a laggard. If you are not ahead of the procession every day it soon gets so far ahead of you that the minute you catch up you are lost. THE MAN WHO WINS IS THE MAN WHO WINS TODAY. THE RACE WAS NOT WON YESTERDAY FOR THEY ARE STILL RUNNING. He doesn't slip himself on the back and rest on the laurels of yesterday for if he did he would find his past successes the mill-stone that would be his undoing.

Just a word about voting. It is an important thing to have a large number of votes and the amount of which you should keep a deep mystery, but it is also very important to you that your friends should be made to know that you have a chance to win and are out for the prizes. The best way to do this is to see them personally, but as you can not see them all on the same day you should increase your daily score enough to attract their attention to your progress and the way will be paved for your personal visit. There have been a good many thousand votes issued to the subscribers of this paper who are only waiting to see which one of their friends have the best chance to win before they cast their vote. If you would get your full share of these votes you should climb as near the top of the heap as possible. ONLY FIVE MORE DAYS IN WHICH TO WIN. DON'T LOSE A MINUTE. KEEP BUSY.

STRONG SERMON
ON HUMAN LIFE

FIRST OF SERIES BY REVEREND LAUGHLIN GIVEN LAST NIGHT.

IS MARRIAGE A FAILURE?

This Subject Was Fully Gone Into Showing the Bible's Teaching on the Subject.

The first of a series of sermons on questions of vital interest to all people was considered last evening at the Presbyterian church by the Rev. J. W.
Laughlin under the title, "Is Marriage a Failure?" The rest of the series will be given throughout the month of November.

The text of the lesson was taken from the nineteenth chapter of Matthew in which it tells of Jesus coming down from Galilee into Jerusalem and being questioned by the Pharisees, "Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause?"

In this chapter Christ sets forth his idea of the marriage relation, this being one of the many talks which Jesus had with the Pharisees on topics about the laws and customs of the land.

At that time there were in Palestine two schools of thought, one school taught that divorce for any reason was right and lawful. This school had a great following among the people, but caused a laxity among its followers that was disastrous to the sacredness of the marriage relation. The other school taught that divorce was right only for one great reason and amongst this class the marriage vows were held as being sacred.

When Jesus was asked about the topic he seized the occasion to set forth his idea of marriage. He threw around the marriage ceremony
a sacredness which has existed up to this day. The frequency of divorce throughout the land at this time, however, has led many people to think that the present custom
should be changed and some remedy
for divorce be found, such as the trial marriage.

People have come to sneer at the marriage relation because of the frequency of divorce in our country.
Figures show that one in every ten marriages throughout the United States ends in a divorce court, and in some states the ratio is one in five.

Since the Civil War the number of divorces have increased two and a half times as fast as the population,
and there are more divorces in one year in the United States than in any other part of Christendom. The cause of this, some people say, that a remedy should be found, but divorce
itself is a remedy, not a disease.

Out of four hundred physicians
who were asked what they considered the real cause of many divorces, 85
percent expressed it as their opinion
most of the separations were caused by a lack of knowledge of the marriage relationship. Children should be taught by their parents about the sexual relationship if they are later
to be happy in married life.

Men and women who become married think too little about it beforehand. A lawyer in this city told of standing on the courthouse steps and hearing a young lady, one of four couples, say in a spirit of three-deviltry, "Let's go in and get a license and get married." If there had been one of the young men who had been prompted by the same spirit, there might have been another marriage
that in a short time would have ended
in divorce.

This is the way in which most of the people who become married, enter into it. They think less about it than a man does in buying a horse.
When a man buys a horse he finds
all that he can about its good qualities and its bad ones, and the horse
will be of his service only a few years
compared to the time in which a man and woman are in the service of each other. Also, when a person goes on a trip or on an ocean voyage, he secures all the information that is possible as to the best place to stop and the best way to go and the way that will best suit him. Yet, comparatively few people will take time to think
and learn anything about marriage,
as they should before they become husband or wife.

People do not think about the marriage relation as they should and because of this there are a large number of divorces. If the young people would stop and consider and read about it

there would not be one-half the number of divorces in the land.

In our judgment of marriage we should not be too harsh because of its undesirable points and its failure to accomplish entirely what it should.
In the business world, 50 per cent of the men who go into business fail,
at one time or another. Yet we do not say that a man should not engage in business because so many make a failure of it. Of the lawyers who start out 35 per cent of them do not succeed, but when a young man expresses his intention of becoming a lawyer we do not say that he should not, because there are so many successes.

In all things this is true more or less. In the church we find it to be the same as in business or in law.
There are people in the church who do not help the church to accomplish its purpose, who are hypocrites, and who do in their everyday life things which no church member should do.
We do not judge these by what they have accomplished, but by the motives that underlie the work, by the clarity, and by the influence and the power which the church has over the world.

If we judged society in the same manner as the marriage relation, we might say we would have to condemn that also. There are evils and impurities in society which exist in all times. The civilization of which we are so proud has its crimes and evils attached to it. This is because civilization in its progress has not always been able to choose what is choicest and best for itself.

Therefore we must not judge the marriage institution by the irregularities and evils which are found in it,
but rather by the good which it accomplishes.

If we look at the institution of marriage from the good it has accomplished, we find that it has caused the establishment of the home. What a grand thing is the home. There is no place like home. That is the place where the father and the mother are and where the children are born. It is from the home that the child gets his conception of life which starts it forth in life. The source of all goodness in a man is traced back to the home where he was born. If a man is a success or a failure in life it is because of his home and the training
he has received there.

Examples too numerous to mention
all of them prove this. Carnegie, Schwab and all the other men of this country who have done things in this country have done it because of their home life and the inspiration which they have received from their wives. Napoleon was a great man and rose to great power while he listened to the counsel of his wife, but, as soon as he no longer gave any heed
to her advice and when his home life became corrupted that marked the beginning of his defeat and downfall.
The home has been preserved by the marriage institution.

Many people have a mistaken idea about marriage. Some seem to think that marriage is the union of two perfect people, but as there are no perfect people in this world, who are perfect this cannot be. Once there was a woman who married a man who had the form and face of an Apollo, but after she married him she found that she would have to mend and darn his socks and feed him if he was to be Apollo-like and good-natured. Marriage is the union of two people who admit each other and who want to be helpful. Love is the thing most concerned with marriage.

Love is the servant of the will. The love in your heart and in my heart will be the subjects of your will and my will. The time when a man or a woman should have control of their heart is when they are to become a husband or a wife.

There is no time where sympathy
is more needed than in wedded life.
The husband has his cares and worries in the business world and the wife should be in a position to sympathize with him in these. The woman has also her endless round of duties which are monotonous. The husband must have some sympathy for her in these trials. This matter of sympathy is one of the greatest things in married life today. One person cannot see things as another person sees them unless they have sympathy.

Many persons have thought when they were married that husband and wife became one and have wondered why that one was not themselves.
Later they have found that there really are two in the family.

The science of living together is the greatest science in the world. The man or woman that masters that science masters a science that is difficult indeed.

When a woman marries a man she generally does not marry a fool, if she does, she is the bigger of the two.
That intelligence which a man or woman has must be considered by the other.

Religion is the one thing in homo life that is necessary. It is the thing that smooths out the rough life and straightens out the crooked. Religion is the life of God in the soul of man.
There is many a man who has been down and many a home has been wrecked because of a lack of a proper guide. There will be domestic storms which will shake the ship of domestic life, but he is a fortunate man and she is a fortunate woman
if Jesus Christ is on board. It will calm all winds and allay the sea of strife.

VOTE TOMORROW

CHAIRMAN McNAMARA ISSUES
STATEMENT RELATIVE TO CAMPAIGN.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY SURE

Work, However, Will Not Be Over Until the Polls Close Tomorrow
Evening.

Republican County Chairman H. L.
McNamara is confident that Rock
county will give Taft and the entire
republican ticket the usual republican majority at tomorrow's election. He,
however, urges upon the voters the
necessity of going to the polls early
to vote and of every voter in the county casting his ballot. He says:

"I am confident of the most accepting republican majority at the polls
tomorrow. However, the campaign
will not be over until the voting closes
tomorrow evening and I urge upon
all voters in the county the necessity
of going to the polls and casting their ballot. The question of securing that all the vote gets out should be the duty of every good republican in the county.

Ward Workers.
"There will be ward workers at
each of the polling places in the city
and in several of the county towns.
What we want is the largest vote
that is possible to turn out so that
there can be no mistake in the results
when counted tomorrow evening. The issues of the campaign have been so
thoroughly discussed that every man
knows by this time the pros and cons
of the questions at stake and should exercise his rights as a citizen and
vote.

Thanks Speakers.
"I also wish to publicly thank the
campaign speakers who have so willingly given their time and eloquence
to the cause. Meetings have been held in every town in the county and Edgerton, Janesville, and Beloit and
their work with rousing meetings tonight."

Answers Question.
In the connection with the voters
the Gazette answers the question as
to whether foreigners holding first papers can vote as follows: To these
it may be said that any man who has taken out his first papers, has lived
in Wisconsin for one year and in his
precinct for ten days and has registered, may vote for all of the offices.

Registry Lists.
While there have been three days,
including primary day, for voters to
register at their respective polling
places, many have failed to do so
through some misunderstanding. In order that they may vote it will be necessary for them to swear in their
vote, which can be done by means of
blankets which will be found at each
polling place.

QUITLY MARRIED
IN FOOTVILLE AT 4

Miss Zoe Cory and Bentley Bemis of Minneapolis, Married at the Home of the Bride's Parents Yesterday Afternoon.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Footville, Nov. 2.—At four o'clock
Sunday afternoon, November 1st, Miss Zoe Cory was united in marriage to Mr. Bentley Bemis, of Minneapolis,
at the home of the bride's parents,
Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Corey, Rev. H.
C. Denison of Janesville performed the impressive ceremony in the presence of only the family and a few friends. Miss Della Strang sang the song "Propose," which was followed by Mendelssohn's Wedding March,
played by Miss Calla Lacey. The wedding took place in the southwest corner of the parlor, Lynn Cory of Chicago acting as best man. The bridesmaid was Miss Louise Fellows and
the bride was given away by her father. The groom was attired in affordable dress and the bride wore white not over white silk, made in the princess style. After the ceremony the company sat down to a delicious three-course dinner. The day was also the wedding anniversary of the bride's parents. For the occasion the mother of the bride wore a dress that was a duplicate of the bride's, and the father wore the suit in which he was married twenty-six years ago.

URGERS VOTERS TO VOTE TOMORROW

CHAIRMAN McNAMARA ISSUES
STATEMENT RELATIVE TO CAMPAIGN.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY SURE

Work, However, Will Not Be Over Until the Polls Close Tomorrow
Evening.

Republican County Chairman H. L.
McNamara is confident that Rock
county will give Taft and the entire
republican ticket the usual republican
majority at tomorrow's election. He,
however, urges upon the voters the
necessity of going to the polls early
to vote and of every voter in the county casting his ballot. He says:

"I am confident of the most accept-
ing republican majority at the polls
tomorrow. However, the campaign
will not be over until the voting closes
tomorrow evening and I urge upon
all voters in the county the necessity
of going to the polls and casting their
ballot. The question of securing that
all the vote gets out should be the duty of every good republican in the county.

Ward Workers.
"There will be ward workers at
each of the polling places in the city
and in several of the county towns.
What we want is the largest vote
that is possible to turn out so that
there can be no mistake in the results
when counted tomorrow evening. The
issues of the campaign have been so
thoroughly discussed that every man
knows by this time the pros and cons
of the questions at stake and should
exercise his rights as a citizen and
vote.

Thanks Speakers.
"I also wish to publicly thank the
campaign speakers who have so willingly given their time and eloquence
to the cause. Meetings have been held in every town in the county and Edgerton, Janesville, and Beloit and
their work with rousing meetings tonight."

Answers Question.
In the connection with the voters
the Gazette answers the question as
to whether foreigners holding first papers can vote as follows: To these
taken out his first papers, has lived
in Wisconsin for one year and in his
precinct for ten days and has registered, may vote for all of the offices.

Registry Lists.
While there have been three days,
including primary day, for voters to
register at their respective polling
places, many have failed to do so
through some misunderstanding. In order that they may vote it will be
necessary for them to swear in their
vote, which can be done by means of
blankets which will be found at each
polling place.

played by Miss Calla Lacey. The wedding took place in the southwest corner of the parlor, Lynn Cory of Chica-

the bride was given away by her

Nina was now thoroughly convinced of Alko's unusual capacity for making mischief.

She had known Alko always, and she had seen her develop from a talented, restless, erratic, emotional girl, easily moved to generosity, into an impulsive woman, reckless to the point of ruthlessness when enmeshed and unhappily stamped her, a woman not deliberately selfish, but with a will which her emotion was sometimes mistaken for, and she was kind by instinct.

Sufficiently intelligent to suffer from the lack of it in others, cultured to the point of recognizing culture, her dangerous unconsciousness lay in her utter lack of mental stamina when conditions became unpleasant beyond her will, not her ability to endure them.

The consequences of her own errors she refused to be burdened with. To escape somehow was her paramount impulse, and she always tried to—had always attempted it even in school days—and further back when Nina first remembered her as a thin, eager, restless little girl scampering from one scrape into another at full speed. Even in those days there were moments when Nina believed her to be actually irrational, but there was every reason to say so to the heedless scatterbrain whose father in the prime of life sat all day in his room, his faded eyes fixed wistfully on the childish toys which his attendant brought to him from his daughter's nursery.

All this Nina was remembering, and again she wondered bitterly at Alko's treatment of her brother and what explanation there could ever be for it—except one.

Lately, too, Alko had scarcely been at pains to conceal her contempt for her husband, if what Rosamund related was true. It was only one more headlong scrape, this second marriage, and Nina knew Alko well enough to expect the usual stampede toward that gay phantom which was always beckoning outward to promised happiness, that goal of heart's desire already lying so far behind her, and farther still, for every step her little flying feet were taking in the oldest, the vainest, the most hopeless, chase in the world—the headlong hunt for happiness.

And if that blind hunt should lead once more toward Selwyn? Suppose, freed from illwill, she turned in her tracks and threw herself and her youthful unhappiness straight at the man who had not yet destroyed the picture that Nina found when she visited her brother's rooms with the desire to be good to him with rocking chairs.

Not that she really believed or feared that Philip would consider such an impossible reconciliation; pride and a sense of the absurd must always check any such wild caprice of her brother's conscience, and yet—and yet other amazing and unaccounted couples had done it—had been reunited.

And Nina was mightily troubled, for Alko's capacity for mischief was boundless, and that she in some manner had already succeeded in getting up Philip was a rumor that persisted and would not be annihilated.

To inform a man frankly that a young girl is a little in love with him is one of the oldest, simplest and easiest methods of interesting that man unless he happens to be in love with somebody else. And Nina had taken her chances that the picture of Alko was already too unimportant for the ceremony of incineration. Besides, what she had ventured to say to him was her belief. The child appeared to be utterly absorbed in her increasing intimacy with Selwyn.

Love was not there. Nina understood that "But the girl" was still dormant, but bedded deliciously in congenial soil—the living germ in all its latent promise, ready to swell with the first sudden heart beat, quicken with the first quickening of the pulse, unfold into perfect symmetry if over the warm, even current in the veins grew swift and hot under the first scorching whisper of truth.

Chapter 14

EILEEN, sewing by the nursery window, looked up. Her little Alstonian maid, crows-legged on the floor at her feet, sewing away diligently, also looked up, then scrambled to her feet as Selwyn halted on the threshold of the room.

"Why, how odd you look!" said Eileen, laughing. "Come in, please, Selwyn and I are only mending some of our summer things. Were you in search of the children? Don't say so if you were, because I'm quite happy in believing that you knew I was here. Did you?"

"Where are the children?" he asked.

"In the park, my very rude friend. You will find them on the mall if you start at once."

He hesitated, but finally seated himself, omitting the little formal handshake with which they always met, even after an hour's separation. Of course she noticed this and, bending low above her sewing, wondered why.

It seemed to him for a moment as though he were looking at a woman he had heard about and had just met for the first time. His observation of her now was leisurely, calm and thorough—not so calm, however, when, impatient of her reticence, bending there over her work, she raised her dark blue eyes to his, her head remaining lowered. The sweet, silent inspection lasted but a moment. Then she resumed her stitches, aware that something in him had changed since she had last seen him. But she merely smiled quietly to herself, confident of his unaltered devotion in spite of the strangely hard and unresponsive gaze that had unusually evaded hers.

As her white fingers flew with the glimmering needle she reflected on conditions as she had left them a week ago. A week ago between him and her the most perfect of understandings existed, and the consciousness of it she had carried with her every moment in the country—amid the leg tangle of the surf, on long, vigorous walks over the green hills where wild moorland winds whipped like a million fairy switches till the young blood fairly sang, pouring through her veins.

Since that—some time within the week—something evidently had happened to him here in the city while she had been away. What?

As she bent above the fine linen garment on her knee, needle flying, a sudden memory stirred coldly—the recollection of her ride with Rosamund—and instinctively her clear eyes flew open, and she raised her head, turning directly toward him a disturbed gaze he did not this time evade.

In silence their regard lingered; then, satisfied, she smiled again, saying, "I have been away so long that we must begin all over, Captain Selwyn?"

"Begin what, Eileen?"

"To remember that the silence of selfish preoccupation is a privilege I have not accorded you?"

"I didn't mean to be preoccupied," she said, "Oh, worse and worse!" She shook her head and began to thread the needle. "I see that my week's absence has not been very good for you. I know it the moment you came in with all that guilty, absconded offrontery which I have forbidden."

He colored up as he took her hand in his. Then they both laughed at the very vigorous shake.

"What a horribly unfriendly creature you can be," said Eileen. "Never a greeting, never even a formal expression of pleasure at my return."

"You have not returned," he said, smiling. "You have been with me every moment, Eileen."

"What a pretty tribute!" she exclaimed. "I am beginning to recognize traces of my training after all."

When the children came in they left the nursery together and descended the stairs to the library. Austin had just come in, and he looked up from his solitary cup of tea as they entered.

"Hello, youngsters! What conspiracy are you up to now? I suppose you snuffed the tea and have come to deprive me. By the way, Phil, I hear that you've sprung the trap on those Scotchmen."

"No, no, I believe," said Selwyn, "No, it is not," retorted Selwyn so bluntly that Eileen turned from the doorway at a sound in his voice which she had never before heard.

"Oh!" Austin stared over his suspended teacup, then drained it. "Trouble with our friend Julius?" he inquired.

"No trouble. I merely severed my connection with him."

"Ah! When?"

"This morning."

"In that case," said Austin, laughing. "I've a job for you."

"No, old fellow, and thank you with all my heart. I've half made up my mind to live on my income for awhile and take up that chaste matter again."

"And blow yourself to smithereens! Why spatter nature thus?"

"No fear," said Selwyn, laughing. "And if it promises anything I may come to you for advice on how to start it commercially."

"If it doesn't start you heavenward you shall have my advice from a safe distance. I'll telegraph it," said Austin. "But, if it's not personal, why on earth have you shaken Noergard?"

And Selwyn answered simply: "I don't like him. That is the reason, Austin."

The children from the head of the stairs were now shouting demands for their father, and Austin rose, pretending to grumble.

"Those confounded kids! A man is never permitted a moment to himself."

He drew from his pocket a flat box. In Nina up there, Eileen? Oh, all right! Excuse me, I'll be back pretty soon. You'll stay to dine, Phil?"

"I don't think so."

"Yes, he will stay," said Eileen calmly.

And when Austin had gone she walked swiftly over to where Selwyn was standing and looked him directly in the eyes.

"Is all well with Gerald?"

"Yes, I suppose so."

"Is he still with Noergard & Co.?"

"Yes, Eileen."

"And you don't like Mr. Noergard?"

"No."

"Then Gerald must not remain."

He said very quietly: "Eileen, Gerald no longer takes me into his confidence. I am afraid—I know, in fact—that I have little influence with him now. I am sorry. It hurts, but your brother is his own master, and he is at liberty to choose his own friends and his own business policy. I cannot influence him. I have learned that thoroughly."

"But," said Eileen, "what real friendship has he left for me than destroy it by my attempt, however gentle, to interfere in his affairs?"

She stood before him, straight, slender, her face grave and troubled.

"I cannot understand," she said, "how he could refuse to listen to a man like you."

"A man like me, Eileen? Well, if I were worth listening to no doubt he'd listen. But the fact remains that I have not been able to hold his interest."

"Don't give him up," she said, still looking straight into his eyes. "If you care for me, don't give him up."

"Care for you, Eileen? You know I do."

"Yes, I know it. So you will not give up Gerald, will you? No—in only a boy. You know that. You know he has been—perhaps—indiscreet. But Gerald is only a boy. Stand by him, Captain Selwyn, because Austin does not know how to manage him—really he doesn't. There has been an other unpleasant scene between them. Gerald told me."

"Did he tell you why, Eileen?"

"Yes. He told me that he had played cards for money and he was in debt. I know that sounds almost disgraceful, but is not his need of help all the greater?"

Selwyn's eyes suddenly narrowed. "Did you help him out this time?"

"I—how do you mean, Captain Selwyn?" But the splendid color in her face confirmed his certainty that she had used her own resources to help her brother pay the gambling debt, and he turned away his eyes, angry and silent.

"Yes," she said under her breath, "I did aid him. What of it? Could I refuse?"

"I know. Don't aid him again—that way."

She stared. "You mean?"

"Send him to me, child. I understand such matters. I—that is—And in sudden exasperation inexplicable for the moment, to them both: "Don't touch such matters again! They sell, I tell you. I will not have Gerald go to you about such things!"

"My own brother! What do you mean?"

"I mean that, brother or not, he shall not bring such matters near you!"

"Am I to count for nothing, then, when Gerald is in trouble?" she demanded, flushing up.

"Count! Count!" he repeated impatiently. "Of course you count! Good heavens! It's women like you who count, and no others—not one single other sort is of the slightest consequence in the world or to it."

She had turned a little pale under his vehemence, watching him out of wide and beautiful eyes.

What she understood, how much of his incoherence she was able to translate, is a question, but in his eyes and voice there was something simpler to divine, and she stood very still, while Selwyn's words.

his roused emotions swept her till her heart leaped up and every vein in her ran fiery red.

"I am—overwhelmed. I did not consider that I counted—so vitally—in the scheme of things. But I must try to if you believe all this of me, only you must teach me how to count for something in the world. Will you?"

"Fench you, Eileen. What winning mockery! I teach you? Well, then, I teach you this—that a man's blunder is best healed by a man's sympathy. I will stand by Gerald as long as he will let me do so, not alone for your sake nor only for his, but for my own. I promise you that. Are you contented?"

"Yes."

She slowly raised one hand, laying it fearlessly in both of his.

"He is all I have left," she said. "You know that."

"I know, child."

"Then, thank you, Captain Selwyn."

"No; I thank you for giving me this charge. It means that a man must raise his own standard of living before he can accept such responsibility. You endow me with all that a man ought to be, and my task is doubled, for it is not only Gerald, but I myself, who require surveillance."

He looked up, dimly serious. "Such women as you alone can fit your brother and me for an endless guard duty over the white standard you have planted on the outer walls of the world."

"You say things to me—sometimes"—she faltered, "that almost hurt with the pleasure they give."

"Did that give you pleasure?"

"Yes; the surprise of it was almost too much for me. I wish you would not—but I am glad you did. You see—dropping into a great velvet chair—'having been of no serious consequence to anybody for so many years—to be told suddenly that I—that I count so vitally with men—a man like you!'"

She snuck back, drew one small hand across her eyes and rested a moment; then, leaning forward, she set her elbow on one knee and bracketed her chin between forefinger and thumb.

"I've not had you to talk to for a whole week," she said, "and you'll tell me, won't you? I can't help it any—because as soon as I see you—crack—a million thoughts wake up in me and clatter-chatter goes my tongue. You are very good for me. You are so thoroughly satisfactory except when your eyes narrow in that dreadful, far-away gaze which I've forbidden, you understand. What have you done to your mustache?"

"Clipped it."

"Oh, I don't like it too short! Can you get hold of it to pull it? It's the only thing that helps you in perplexity to solve problems. You'd be utterly helpless mentally without your mustache. Shall we take up our Etruscan symbols again when you come down to stay with us at Silverdale?"

"To be continued."

MURDER MYSTERY UNCOVERED.

Man's Skeleton Found on Former Estate of George Washington.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Through the finding Monday of the skeleton of a man on the historic Mt. Vernon estate, at one time the home of George Washington, the authorities of Fairfax county, Va., have to solve what appears to be a murder mystery.

Gato-keeper Vickers, employee of the estate, discovered the skeleton, together with the dead man's clothes, a gold watch, a bottle of whiskey and a calendar, in a patch of woods near the entrance to the ground. Upon the calendar the name "Antonio" was written, and a bullet was discovered among the bones. The theory of the police is that an Italian workman, employed two years ago in the construction of a road near the point where the skeleton was found, was shot by one of his fellow-workmen.

Death Follows Halloween Prank.

Washington, Nov. 2.—A Halloween prank had a tragic ending in the death here Sunday night at Georgetown hospital of Frank Kretzner, a prominent young merchant of Rockville, Md., as the result of wounds said to have been inflicted by Nicholas Orfitt, also of Rockville. The shooting occurred in Kretzner's store in Rockville. Orfitt claimed, it is said, that Kretzner had insulted his little sister by pulling her mask from her face.

Russia to Threaten Austria?

Paris, Nov. 2.—A Berlin dispatch to the Paris Press says it is rumored in diplomatic circles that Russia is about to send an ultimatum to Austria-Hungary and is making preparations for a hasty mobilization. The dispatch adds that it was impossible to obtain a verification of this report.

Political Murder in Oklahoma.

Foraker, Okla., Nov. 2.—In a political quarrel here Sunday Frank S. Seward, a prominent merchant and local Democratic committeeman, shot and killed John H. Millam, a well-known farmer of Pawnee, Okla. The shooting occurred in Seward's store. Millam was a Republican.
